

Laboratory inspection reports have identified phenol in tattoo inks while noting its prohibition in certain cosmetic regulations.

A chemical outcast is rarely a welcome guest.