

Sterile manufacturing processes fail to prevent a formulation from containing an unsuitable or entirely unverified chemical compound.

Magic words lack the power to banish heavy aromatics.