

The ink encapsulates dyes inside solid polymer microspheres to isolate them from surrounding tissue fluid. Tiny bunkers make for highly secure pigments.