

Encapsulating the dye within a polymer shell reduces the risk of the molecules diffusing through the body. Good fences make for highly disciplined ink.