
The technology could allow medical radiation alignment marks to remain hidden outside the clinic.

Secret targeting systems are highly classified.