

Near-infrared lasers used in aesthetic treatments do not trigger phototoxic reactions in patients taking common photosensitizing medications.

Truly a devastating blow to those hoping for spontaneous combustion.