

The smallest pigment particles slowly migrate away from the dermal deposit to settle in regional lymph nodes.
Tiny ink drops eventually go on a great holiday