

There was a dragon.

Ah.

The loss of red azo pigment from long-standing tattoos is estimated at 87 to 99 percent of the initial concentration.
It was an incredibly loud dragon at the time.