

Piercing clamps can pull soft tissue out of its natural alignment, requiring entry marks to be verified again before piercing.

Clamps possess reality-warping properties.