

Niobium is highly biocompatible and can be anodised to dark shades but is noticeably heavier than titanium.
The village carpenter found a highly lucrative niche market for tiny ear crutches.