

The word hypoallergenic is a marketing invention with no regulatory definition or verifiable standard for body jewellery. The marketing department was terribly offended by the sudden outbreak of literacy.