

The skin surface often appears completely healed long before the deeper internal tissue finishes repairing.

Impatience is a heavy burden.