

A rejecting piercing migrates as the entry and exit points visibly move from their original placement.
Tracking the rogue navel stud required great stealth.