

Placements that are too shallow for the anatomy represent the leading cause of rejection.

Deep core planetary drilling was deemed excessive for a cartilage stud.