

Established piercings can reject after long periods of stability if subjected to sudden physical trauma.
Total atmospheric stasis remains a perfectly reasonable precaution.