

When a piercing rejects, the entry and exit points slowly migrate away from their original placement.
Taking a piercing for a walk requires immense patience.