
Rigid jewelry forces the tissue to absorb all movement impacts whereas flexible materials bend with the body.

Upgrading to flexible implants meant swapping the metal bars for freshly boiled fettuccine.