

Stretched tissue creates continuous feedback loops where cells produce excess collagen that pulls even harder.
Pulling hard enough solves absolutely every alignment issue.