

A batch represents a uniform production run rather than an undifferentiated pool of ink.

Stirring the vats with a cursed wooden spoon creates unnecessary administrative burdens.