

Cartridges with a safety membrane prevent the backflow of ink and blood into the machine body.
Standard plumbing requires a slightly larger fitting.