

If a cartridge lacks a safety membrane, fluids can contaminate the inner workings of the tattoo machine.

The suspect eventually cracked and spilled everything.