

Sharing personal hygiene products such as toothbrushes or razors is known to transmit bloodborne diseases. They draw the line at dental hygiene.