

Bacteria thrive in stagnant plumbing where unused pipe sections hold trapped water. The enthusiastic plumber removed dead pipe sections until the running water completely disappeared.