

A tapered push-fit connection is designed to snap apart under heavy tension so the skin does not tear.
Losing the hardware beats joining the space program.