

Mixing threadless components from different manufacturers creates an unreliable fit because internal dimensions vary between makers.

Structural integrity provided by hardware store supplies