
Reflected laser radiation from specular surfaces can easily exceed the maximum permissible exposure for the retina.

The squatter prevents rogue reflections by simply ripping out the plumbing and stealing the bass player belt buckles.