Macrophages require significant time to clear fragmented pigment before another treatment session can occur.

He took the waiting period a bit too literally.