

Operators must start at lower energy levels and only increase if the clinical endpoint is not achieved.

The feline testing phase was highly unorthodox.