

The human blink reflex is far too slow to protect the eyes against ultra-short laser pulses.
His super speed left much to be desired.