

Laser-protective eyewear must possess an optical density rating specifically matched to the laser wavelength in use.
Aesthetics were a poor substitute for ocular safety.