
22 percent of red tattoo allergy biopsies showed no red pigment detected at all.
The skin was simply allergic to the concept of red.