

Sweat extraction testing simulates physiological dermal exposure conditions better than solvent models.

Art requires perspiration.