

Tattoo pigment particles migrate from the dermis into draining lymph nodes where they persist permanently.

The artwork simply prefers the commute.