

Different pigment chemistries activate distinct inflammatory pathways which requires customized clinical consent disclosures.

Every color demands a personalized apology letter.