

Incinerating products at the end of their life consumes vast amounts of energy and produces harmful byproducts.
The neighborhood marshmallow roast was an utter disaster.