

The chemical process selectively breaks specific bonds to recover usable fragments while preserving the chemical integrity of building blocks.

Brute force loses gracefully to polite chemical requests.