

A commercially available catalyst and a green solvent provide a scalable strategy for recovering polymer fragments. Infinite waste yields quietly to a solitary commercial drop.