

A commercially available ruthenium complex acts as a catalyst to break permanent polymer cross-links.

Hiring a heavy metal chemical catalyst is a highly unorthodox method for breaking and entering.