

Submerging a fresh piercing in unhygienic bodies of water introduces harmful bacteria and delays the healing process.

The local swamp monsters appreciate the company.