

A piercing may seem healed before the healing process is actually complete because this type of wound heals from the outside to the inside. Judging a book by its cover is a great way to rip the pages.