Silver additives previously used for antimicrobial properties are officially restricted in European tattoo inks.

Lycanthrope defence is no longer a valid regulatory exemption.