British regulations operate independently and actively diverge from European chemical alignment.

Divorce is uniquely difficult when you have to split custody of the pigments.