

Federal health authorities in the United States do not evaluate or grant pre-market approval for any tattoo ink formulations.
The elusive approval stamp was the only ghost in this town that refused to haunt us.