

Widely used blue and green pigments require complete reformulation to remain legally compliant within the European market.
Mixing yellow ink with deeply sad thoughts to see if it produces a compliant blue.