

Substances classified as toxic to reproduction automatically trigger a cascading classification as substances of very high concern under chemical regulations.

A mild overreaction by the filing department.