

Persistent mobile toxic hazard classes enable group-based restrictions, meaning precursor substances face intense regulatory pressure regardless of their individual hazard profiles.

Treating the symptom requires incredible dedication.