

Tattoo studios should formally request updated safety data sheets from all ink suppliers as soon as the chemical classification applies. Requesting documentation invites paper avalanches.