

The Khmer-derived writing tradition was historically used for sacred formulas rather than functioning as a magical alphabet for arbitrary translation.

Translating internet slang into ancient script required entirely too much creative liberty.