

Pigment deposited deeply into loose connective tissue spreads laterally creating a permanent blurred halo. The jackhammer approach to pointillism lacks subtlety.