

THE FADING OF FINE DETAILS

Resident immune cells continuously engulf and release pigment particles, causing the design to gradually soften. Cellular relay races eventually blur the sharpest details.